The next phase of cloud adoption - Mission-Critical in the Multi-Cloud era. Major providers have built trustworthy, scalable, future-proofed, secure platforms that are key to transformed services. Organizations are looking to deploy as many mission-critical applications to Multi-Cloud as their next step.

When combined, cloud platforms can accelerate service delivery and infrastructure provision while catering to demand fluctuation. Fujitsu Managed Private Cloud Services (FMPCS) and VMware enableinnovation through advanced native tools and AWS APIs. The 'right cloud for the right workload' approach combines with additional benefits like lower costs through scalability and agility, improved user productivity, and platform flexibility.

How organizations are combining platforms:

1. Unify their IT across over 20 countries
2. Meeting demands for faster, more cost-efficient, and ultra-high resilient operations
3. Delivering exceptional value in highly-regulated industries

How can you transform whilst achieving ultra-high resilience, standardization of core services, and cost-efficiency?

- Full end-to-end assurance for productivity, new capabilities, and innovation
- Accelerating time to market and reducing costs while ensuring compliance
- Meeting regulatory standards and managing data visibility

Fire guide to 'always-on' transformed services

A market-leading expert is key to transformed services. Leveraging Fujitsu Managed Private Cloud Services (FMPCS), organizations can

- Simplify migration
- Tailor approach and tools for infrastructure
- Augment by common management tools
- Bring clouds together
