Customer challenges

Organizations across the globe share a common challenge: how to efficiently train IT teams with the skills they need to achieve business outcomes. This challenge is further amplified when IT teams have differing skills and time constraints, and are based in various locations. Additionally, users require access to the right content at the right level of expertise, at the right time, which can be vital to the success of your VMware solutions.

VMware Enterprise Learning Subscription overview

Digital learning is the future of IT training. The VMware Enterprise Learning Subscription™ is a comprehensive digital learning solution with the latest training content developed exclusively by VMware certified experts. The subscription helps IT organizations and teams gain the knowledge, skills and validation for continued success—anytime, anywhere—with the ability to rewatch many of the troubleshooting videos, e-learning courses, and full on-demand courses during the subscription period.

The Enterprise Learning Subscription optionally begins, at your request, with a Knowledge Skills Assessment that provides actionable insights to address gaps in IT skills and optimize your VMware investments. This enables you to maximize the knowledge accessible via your subscription, providing a flexible, continuous learning solution that enables your IT team to train on their terms, at their own pace, wherever they happen to be. Each subscription provides 24x7 digital access with unlimited use of more than 2,500 online IT training courses, including:

- Official VMware on-demand training courses
- The entire VMware Customer Connect Learning™ video library
- VMware Lab Connect™ guides
- Certification exam prep guides and videos

The Enterprise Learning Subscription also provides two VMware Certified Professional (VCP) exam vouchers per student per year. VMware Certified Professional is a certification designed to demonstrate technical competency with VMware solutions.

On-demand courses offer the same in-depth instruction and content as the instructor-led courses offered by VMware Learning. With engaging recorded videos, these courses span every aspect of VMware technologies—from design to implementation.

Successful completion of qualifying on-demand courses meets eligibility requirements for relevant certification requirements. Plus, you can get additional guidance and preparation for the VCP exams through dedicated exam prep guides offered throughout the subscription.

ADDITIONAL VALUE-ADDED FEATURES

- Immediate access to new, frequently added content
- No additional charge for new content added throughout your subscription term
- Multiyear subscription packages are available upon request for uninterrupted service with the ability to add or change subscription users each year

Benefits of digital training

Companies investing in continuous and digital learning for their employees are more likely to see positive outcomes that can be measured in terms of employee satisfaction and drive, as well as increased productivity and IT project success.

Benefits of the Enterprise Learning Subscription include:

- Comprehensive content – Get access to our entire catalog of on-demand training courses, plus more than 2,500 short videos with instructional content covering the full VMware solution stack. As a registered user, you can take as many training modules as you want—anytime, anywhere.
- Community engagement – Engage with other learners and VMware experts via the forums and comments for each course. Attend the webinars and available instructor hours to get the most out of your learning.
- Convenient access – Take as many courses as desired at your own pace, 24x7 from anywhere in the world. The subscription was developed with flexibility and convenience in mind.

The Enterprise Learning Subscription platform offers a video-driven user experience, creating an environment for exciting and engaging learning. The platform also has a simplified search and navigation engine to help you quickly and easily find information by VMware product, cloud technology, or even your favorite VMware Learning instructor.

Focused on your business outcomes

Your success starts on the first day of your subscription. One of our customer success experts will support new users through the onboarding process.

We will help:

- Pre-register all your designated team members onto the subscription.
- Provide onboarding information to help new registrants navigate the platform.
- Answer questions and offer best practices and helpful tips for getting the most out of the subscription.

After your IT team members are onboarded, a live chat and community forums will be available to answer questions and help find the right level of content. Individualized learning paths that cater to participant skillsets and desired organizational objectives can also be recommended. We can also provide consumption metrics to your organization to demonstrate the subscription's utilization across your team members.
